Africa

Chi Peng-fei, Foreign Minister:

China and the African countries are all developing countries belonging to the Third World. In their protracted common struggle against foreign aggression and for national independence, the Chinese people and the African people have always sympathized with and supported each other and forged a profound militant friendship. Following the consistent teachings of Chairman Mao Tse-tung, the Chinese people have always regarded the struggle of the great African people as a great support and assistance to them and considered it their bounden internationalist duty to support and assist the liberation struggles of all oppressed peoples and oppressed nations. As always, the Chinese government and people will do their best to strengthen and develop their friendly relations and cooperation with African countries and resolutely support the just struggle of the African people.

Austria

Chi Peng-fei, Foreign Minister:

The Chinese Government and people have always supported the Austrian people in their just struggle of safeguarding their national independence and state sovereignty. .... Although China and Austria are far apart and have different social systems, the people of the two countries have sympathized with and supported each other in opposing foreign interference and expansion and in safeguarding national independence and state sovereignty. The Chinese Government has always held that all countries, big or small, should be equal. The internal affairs of a country should be settled by the people of that country. Other countries have no right to interfere with. World affairs should be settled by all the countries of the world through consultation and not by the final say of one or two big powers. We resolutely oppose hegemonism and power politics by superpowers. This we have done, so shall we continue.

Jen-min Jih-pao Editorial:

The Chinese and Cambodian peoples are close comrades-in-arms and brothers. We are of one family. We have always encouraged and supported each other and forged a profound militant friendship in our common struggle against imperialism. The Cambodian people's struggle and their victories constitute a tremendous encouragement and support to the Chinese people. The Chinese people have all along regarded the Cambodian people's struggle as their own and considered it their bounden internationalist duty to support the Cambodian people's just cause. In the time to come, we will, as always, stand with the fraternal Cambodian people and give firm support and assistance to their just cause.

Chou En-lai, Premier:

The Chinese and Cambodian peoples are close comrades-in-arms and brothers. There is a profound militant friendship between our two peoples who have always sympathized with and supported each other. China is a socialist country. We are proletarian internationalists. ... We firmly support the just struggle of the Cambodian people as well as the Five-Point Declaration issued by the Cambodian Head of State Samdech Norodom Sihanouk and the Political Program of the National United Front of Cambodia, both of which were reaffirmed by the National Congress of Cambodia held in 1973. Standing firmly by the Cambodian people, the Chinese people will, as always, give all-out support and assistance to the Cambodian people in their struggle against US aggression and for national salvation, till complete victory is won.

("Premier Chou En-lai's Speech," NCNA-English, Peking, April 1, 1974--SCMP 74-15/193-196)

Wang Hung-wen, Vice Chairman of CPC Central Committee:

The Cambodian comrades-in-arms have brought us the sentiments of militant friendship of the Cambodian people and happy tidings of new victories. This is a tremendous encouragement to the Chinese people who are engaged in the campaign of criticizing Lin Piao and Confucius and in socialist revolution and socialist construction.

... The Chinese people firmly support the Five-Point Declaration of Head of State Samdech Norodom Sihanouk and the Political Program of the National United Front of Cambodia, which were reaffirmed by the Cambodian National Congress. The Chinese people firmly support the Cambodian people in their struggle against US aggression and for national salvation.

... China and Cambodia are close fraternal neighbors. There exists a traditional friendship of long standing between our two peoples. In the protracted anti-imperialist revolutionary struggle, we have always sympathized with and supported each other. Over the past few years in particular, our solidarity and friendship have been further consolidated and developed. Our friendship is one that can stand tests, and no one on earth can undermine it. The Chinese people have always considered it their bounden internationalist duty to support the Cambodian people's war against US aggression and for national salvation.

Gabon

Jen-min Jih-pao Editorial:

China and the African countries all belong to the Third World. In the course of the protracted struggle against imperialism, colonialism, hegemonism, Zionism and racism, the Chinese people and the African people, supporting and encouraging each other, have forged a profound friendship. We are happy at the establishment of diplomatic relations between the two countries which enables China to have a new friend in Africa. We are deeply convinced that with the joint efforts of the two sides, the relations of friendly cooperation between the two countries and the friendship between the two peoples will develop further in the years to come.

Guinea-Bissau

Jen-min Jih-pao Editorial:

Both China and Guinea-Bissau belong to the Third World. The people of the two countries have always encouraged and supported each other in the common struggle against imperialism and colonialism. The establishment of diplomatic relations between the two countries will open up broad prospects for the further development of the militant friendship between the two peoples and the strengthening of friendly relations and cooperation between the two countries. We are confident that the friendship between our two countries will grow constantly through the common efforts of both sides and on the basis of the five principles of mutual respect for sovereignty and territorical integrity, mutual non-aggression, non-interference in each other's internal affairs, equality and mutual benefit and peaceful coexistence.

Tanzania

Jen-min Jih-pao Editorial:

Sino-Tanzanian friendship has a long history. Friendly contacts between the people of the two countries date back more than one thousand years. In their protracted struggles against imperialism and colonialism, the people of both countries have supported and encouraged each other and cemented a militant friendship between them. We are happy to see that the friendly relations of cooperation between our two countries have developed satisfactorily following President Nyerere's two visits to China. The Tanzanian Government all along supported the restoration of China's legitimate rights in the United Nations and praises the great victories of China's great proletarian cultural revolution. These are support and encouragement to the Chinese people and we express our sincere thanks.

... We ... sincerely hope that the friendship between the people of China and Tanzania will endure as long as the Himalayas and Kilimanjaro.

("Jen-min Jih-pao Editorial: Warm Welcome to President Nyerere," NCNA-English, Peking, March 23, 1974 -- SCMP 74-14/66-67)

Chou En-lai, Premier:

China and Tanzania are both developing countries belonging to the Third World. Our two peoples have met with similar experience and have always sympathized with and supported each other in our protracted struggles against foreign aggression and oppression and for national independence and liberation. It is our similar experience in the past and our common fighting tasks at present that provide a solid foundation for the continuous development of the friendly relations and cooperation between our two countries. We believe that the current visit to China by His Excellency the President will certainly make a new positive contribution to furthering the friendly relations and cooperation between China and Tanzania and the friendship between our two peoples.

("Speech by Premier Chou En-lai," NCNA-English, Peking, March 24, 1974 -- SCMP 74-14/104-107)

Chou En-lai, Premier:

It is more than ten years since diplomatic relations were established between China and Tanzania. We are pleased to note that, under the loving care of His Excellency the President and of Chairman Mao, the friendly relations and cooperation between our two countries have developed steadily, and friendship between our two peoples has deepened ever more. Our two peoples will carry on their unity and friendship from generation to generation. This is not only in the fundamental interests of the Chinese and Tanzanian peoples but also in the interests of the Third World's common cause of unity against imperialism and hegemonism. We think that the smooth development of the friendly relations and cooperation between China and Tanzania on the basis of the five principles of peaceful coexistence has set a good example for closer unity among Third World countries. This is the result of the joint efforts of our two Governments and peoples.

United Nations

Hsu Li-chang (徐礼章), Observer to 3rd Special Session of UN Population Commission:

It is China's consistent position to combat imperialism, colonialism, neo-colonialism and superpower hegemonism, and support the developing countries in their struggle to safeguard national independence, develop independent national economy and improve and raise the living standard and cultural level of the people step by step. It is also the common demand of the Asian, African and Latin American developing countries and the earnest desire of the broad masses of the people of the world."

The formulation of population policy and target, census and the publication of statistics are internal affairs within the sovereignty of each country and should be handled by each government in accordance with the wishes of its people. It is inappropriate and unfeasible for the United Nations World Population Conference to lay down unified regulations. International cooperation in the field of population matter must be carried out in conformity with the principles of complete voluntariness of the parties concerned, strict respect for state sovereignty and promotion of self-reliance on the part of the recipient countries.

Huang Ming-ta (黄明达), Representative to 30th Session of ECAFE:

A country's political independence is inseparable from its economic independence. To defend political and economic independence against foreign interference and control is the first prerequisite for the development of a national economy. At present, the political and economic independence of Asian and Far Eastern countries are still constantly threatened and impaired by imperialism, colonialism and neo-colonialism, and particularly by the superpowers. Only by firmly resisting the interference, control and infiltration of imperialism, colonialism and neo-colonialism, and the superpowers in particular, and gradually shaking off dependence upon them, can the developing countries in Asia and the Far East safeguard their own independence and sovereignty, protect their national resources from plunder and develop their national economy.

The experience of many developing countries shows that the reliable way for the developing countries to develop their national economy is to maintain independence, practice self-reliance and, on this basis, support, help and cooperate with one another.

("Statement by Chinese Representatives at 30th Session of ECAFE," NCNA-English, Colombo, March 29, 1974 -- SCMP 74-15/117-121)

Chi Lung (李 龙), Alternate Representative of Chinese Delegation to 30th Session of ECAFE:

The Hsisha and Nanshan Islands in the South China Sea have always been an inalienable part of China's territory. The People's Republic of China has indisputable sovereignty over these islands and the sea areas around them.

It is wrong that Hsisha Islands and Nansha Islands of China are listed as offshore islands of the Saigon authorities in South Vietnam in the above-mentioned document prepared by the Secretariat. The Chinese delegation demands that the Secretariat take measures to correct the mistake and see to it that similar cases will not occur in future.

("Chinese Representative Reaffirms China's Sovereignty over Hsisha, Nansha Islands at ECAFE Meeting," NCNA-English, Colombo, March 30, 1974 -- SCMP 74-15/211-212)

Teng Hsiao-ping, Vice Premier:

The essence of the prob lems of raw materials and development is the struggle of the developing countries to defend their state sovereignty, develop their national economy and combat imperialist, and particularly superpower, plunder and control. This is a very important aspect of the current struggle of the third world countries and people against colonialism, imperialism and hegemonism.

Plunder and exploitation by colonialism, imperialism, and particularly by the superpowers, are making the poor countries poorer and the rich countries richer, further widening the gap between the two. Imperialism is the greatest obstacle to the liberation of the developing countries and to their progress. It is entirely right and proper for the developing countries to terminate imperialist economic monopoly and plunder, sweep away these obstacles and take all necessary measures to protect their economic resources and other rights and interests.

We hold that all countries, big or small, rich or poor, should be equal, and that international economic affairs should be jointly managed by all the countries of the world instead of being monopolized by the one two superpowers. We support the full right of the developing countries, which comprise the great majority of the world's population, to take part in all decision-making on international trade, monetary, shipping and other matters.

China is a socialist country, and a developing country as well, China belongs to the Third World. Consistently following Chairman Mao's teachings, the Chinese government and people firmly support all oppressed peoples and oppressed nations in their struggle to win or defend national independence, develop the national economy and oppose colonialism, imperialism and hegemonism. This is our bounden international duty. China is not a superpower, nor will she ever seek to be one.

Fu Tso-yi (傅作义), CPPCC Vice Chairman:

To liberate Taiwan is the common desire of the people of the whole country, including the people in Taiwan province. We are determined to liberate it. As to the choice of means by which we liberate Taiwan, that is China's internal affair and no outsiders have any right to meddle with it.

Pi Chi-lung (毕季龙), Head of Chinese Delegation to Geneva Conventions Diplomatic Conference:

Countries want independence, nations want liberation, and the people want revolution--this has become an irresistible historical trend of the present age. In these circumstances, how should the Geneva Conventions be supplemented and developed so as to meet the needs of the present era? The Chinese delegations would like to state our views on some of the main issues in this regard.

We have always held that war is the continuation of politics. Wars have always been divided into two kinds, just and unjust.

In our discussions on how to develop the Geneva Conventions, we must draw a distinction between just and unjust wars, we must support just and revolutionary wars and oppose imperialist wars of aggression and all other unjust wars. The Chinese delegation holds that it must be the basic theme and primary principle of the new protocol to support just wars and oppose unjust wars.

We are determined to liberate the sacred territory of the fatherland, Taiwan province, and our compatriots in Taiwan will certainly return to the embrace of the fatherland.
